

21st Century TEENS Junior<sup>1</sup>

21st Century TEENS Junior<sup>2</sup>

二十一世纪学生英文报·初三 2020年3月2日 星期一 teens.i21st.cn 2019-20学年第28期

Homebound: stay strong

共同战“疫”

本期“共同战‘疫’”专题，聚焦“宅在家为疫情防控做贡献”。非常时期，深居简出、足不出户成为了许多人的生活方式。除了刷网页、发朋友圈，“宅在家”的生活也可以很精彩。在线学习、花式健身、云看展、练厨艺、阅读、刷剧……是时候发挥聪明才智，解锁新技能了。做自己想做的事，保持积极向上的心态，迎接春天的到来。共同战“疫”，TEENS与你在一起！

为了抗疫宅在家，“云生活”里乐趣多

PAGES 3-6

Livestreaming, video recording and apps have never been utilized so thoroughly to help people study, stay fit and have a good time while stuck at home during the NCP outbreak.

Beautiful beard

他们留胡子需要理由吗？

Here is why more men worldwide choose to have facial hair. PAGE 7

CHINA DAILY

TEENS 使用指南

登录网站，下载文章配套教学PPT。

难度分级，笑脸越多，文章语言难度越大。

本文由外教专家朗读，音频见网站。

此处欢迎投稿，互动方式详见各栏目。

扫描进入21世纪微信公众号，获取更多内容。

第28/688期 初三
北京教育学院朝阳分院附属学校 张淑娟

Creativity brings cheer

宅家不无聊：青少年用创意抗击疫情。

😊😊😊 🎧 👤 词数 600 建议阅读时间 15分钟 测试见IV版

Although most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, there are still many people trying to do some creative things not only to kill time, but also to help themselves and others stay positive during this difficult period. In their own ways, they are showing others that they won't let the virus get them down. Take a look at some of the interesting things they're doing with their spare time.

TEENS

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. "My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people's spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) - the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China," Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, "I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day."

扫码可观看 Matthew Lee 的“挥汗战疫”加油舞视频。

加微信，听报纸
关注我们，点击“听力音频”，找到相应文章收听。

Write a rap song

"I close my eyes and pray (祈祷) hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood."

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking

(引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情). People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

"I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I'll continue to make more," Liu told China Youth Daily.

Write an English poem

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. While stuck at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. "My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting, as you can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards," Du said. "As teenagers, we can't go to the front line to save people's lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time." Here is one poem they wrote.

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油，中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (难解决地) difficulty

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one city

Jadedness (疲倦) can't stop them from conquering (战胜) this disease

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society
Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING NORMAL

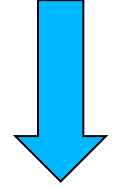

Many teens are finding creative ways to stay positive these days. TUCHONG

Learning chart

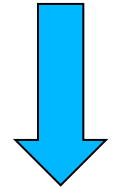

Understanding ideas

Describe the picture
Get to know the main idea

Developing ideas

Analyze teenagers' feelings

Presenting ideas

Write a report

Understanding ideas

Lead-in

1. What can you see in the picture?
2. How is she feeling? why?

Understanding ideas

Creativity → brings cheer

宅家不无聊：青少年用创意抗击疫情。

the ability to create prediction

What's the passage mainly about?

Creativity brings cheer

加微信，听报纸
关注我们，点击“听力音频”，找到相应文章收听。

Write a rap song

"I close my eyes and pray (祈祷) hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood."

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking

(引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情). People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

"I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I'll continue to make more," Liu told China Youth Daily.

Write an English poem

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. While stuck at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. "My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting, as you can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards," Du said. "As teenagers, we can't go to the front line to save people's lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time." Here is one poem they wrote.

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油，中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (难解决地) difficulty

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one city

Jadedness (疲倦) can't stop them from conquering (战胜) this disease

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society
Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING NORMAL

Many teens are finding creative ways to stay positive these days. TUCHONG

宅家不无聊：青少年用创意抗击疫情。

词数 600 建议阅读时间 15分钟 测试见IV版

Although most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, there are still many people trying to do some creative things not only to kill time, but also to help themselves and others stay positive during this difficult period. In their own ways, they are showing others that they won't let the virus get them down. Take a look at some of the interesting things they're doing with their spare time.

TEENS

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. "My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people's spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) - the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China," Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, "I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day."

扫码可观看
Matthew Lee
的“挥汗战役”
加油舞视频。

Creativity brings cheer

宅家不无聊：青少年用创意抗击疫情。

词数 600 建议阅读时间 15分钟 测试见IV版

Although most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, there are still many people trying to do some creative things not only to kill time, but also to help themselves and others stay positive during this difficult period. In their own ways, they are showing others that they won't let the virus get them down. Take a look at some of the interesting things they're doing with their spare time.

not able to move

keep cheerful

disappoint them, lower sb's spirits

Creativity brings cheer

宅家不无聊：青少年用创意抗击疫情。

😊😊😊 🎧 👤 词数 600 建议阅读时间 15分钟 测试见IV版

Although most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, there are still many people trying to do some creative things not only to kill time, but also to help themselves and others stay positive during this difficult period. In their own ways, they are showing others that they won't let the virus get them down. Take a look at some of the interesting things they're doing with their spare time.

TEENS

headline 1

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. "My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people's spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) - the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China," Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, "I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day."

扫码可观看 Matthew Lee 的“挥汗战疫”加油舞视频。

headline 2

Write a rap song

"I close my eyes and pray (祈祷) hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood."

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking

(引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情). People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

"I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I'll continue to make more," Liu told China Youth Daily.

headline 3

Write an English poem

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. While stuck at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. "My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting, as you can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards," Du said. "As teenagers, we can't go to the front line to save people's lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time." Here is one poem they wrote.

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油, 中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (难解决地) difficulty

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one city

Jadedness (疲倦) can't stop them from conquering (战胜) this disease

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society
Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING NORMAL

Many teens are finding creative ways to stay positive these days. TUCHONG

Understanding ideas

What's the passage mainly about?

Creative indoor activities.

Understanding ideas

3 indoor activities

Name	Introduction	What they did	Why

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. “My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people’s spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) – the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China,” Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, “I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day.”

Write a rap song

“I close my eyes and pray (祈祷)/ hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood.”

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking (引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情). People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

“I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I’ll continue to make more,” Liu told China Youth Daily.

Write an English poem

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. While stuck at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. “My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting, as you can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards,” Du said. “As teenagers, we can’t go to the front line to save people’s lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time.” Here is one poem they wrote.

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油，中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (难解决地) difficulty

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one city

Jadedness (疲倦) can’t stop them from conquering (战胜) this disease

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society

Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING

NORMAL

who

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. “My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people’s spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) – the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China,” Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, “I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day.”

Write a rap song

what

“I close my eyes and pray (祈祷)/ hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood.”

who

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking (引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情). People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

what

why

“I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I’ll continue to make more,” Liu told China Youth Daily.

Write an English poem

who

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. What she did at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. “My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting, as you can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards,” Du said. Why teenagers, we can’t go to the front line to save people’s lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time.” Here is one poem they wrote.

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油， 中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (难解决地) difficulty

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one city

Jadedness (疲倦) can’t stop them from conquering (战胜) this disease

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society

Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING

NORMAL

Understanding ideas

3 indoor activities

Name	Introduction	What they did	Why
Matthew Lee and Jojo	a 16-year-old Chinese-American in Los Angeles	made a dance video	to encourage people to work out for their health to lift people's spirits
Liu Yixin Li Yusheng	Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China	wrote a rap song	to express his own opinions about the present situation
Du Yiran	Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei.	wrote English poems	to help cheer people up

Developing ideas

1. What are their ideas in the face of epidemic?

2. What do you think of them?

Deep thinking

Name	Their ideas	what do you think of them
Matthew Lee and Jojo
Liu Yixin Li Yusheng
Du Yiran

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. “My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people’s spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) – the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China,” Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, “I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day.”

use of physical or mental energy, hard work

cheerful, confident,
positive

Write a rap song

“I close my eyes and pray (祈祷)/ hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood.”

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking (引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情).

People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

talented, responsible

“I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I’ll continue to make more,” Liu told China Youth Daily.

Write an English poem

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. While stuck at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. “My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting, as you can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards,” Du said. “As teenagers, we can’t go to the front line to save people’s lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time.” Here is one poem they wrote.

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油, 中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (艰

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one c

Jadedness (疲倦) can’t stop them from conqueri

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society

Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING

NORMAL

understanding, thoughtful, cooperative, responsible

Developing ideas

1. What are their ideas in the face of epidemic?
2. What do you think of them?

Name	Their ideas	what do you think of them
Matthew Lee and Jojo	they will make a better day with sweat and smiles	cheerful, confident, positive
Liu Yixin Li Yusheng	Music is the best way for him to express himself	talented, responsible
Du Yiran	they should learn to care about others and do something meaningful	understanding, thoughtful, cooperative, responsible,

Summary

Draw an outline of this passage

3 indoor activities

General

Detail

who

what

why

ideas

→ Although most of us are now stuck at home ... Take a look at some of the interesting things.....

Useful sentences

Creativity brings cheer (P4-5)

Although most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, there are still many people trying to do some creative things not only to kill time, but also to help themselves and others stay positive during this difficult period. In their own ways, they are showing others that they won't let the virus get them down. Take a look at some of the interesting things they're doing with their spare time.

who

Encourage people to dance

Matthew Lee is a 16-year-old Chinese-American. Although he is now living in Los Angeles, US, the news about the outbreak in China still hit close to home (使感同身受) for him. When he learned that most Chinese are unable to leave their houses, he decided to encourage them to work out at home by making a dance video with his friends. “My friend Jojo was excited about the opportunity to lift people’s spirits and she said she would dance her heart out for a great cause (目标) – the health and wellness of those quarantined (隔离) in China,” Lee told TEENS. In the cooldown part of the dance, Lee chose to dance to the song We Are The World. Lee said, “I believe that with sweat and smiles, together, we will make a better day.”

what

why

ideas

Write a rap song

what

“I close my eyes and pray (祈祷)/ hoping everything will be okay/ the one who can save you is not God/ but an ordinary man in flesh (肉身) and blood.”

who

These are a few lines from a rap song written by Liu Yixin and Li Yusheng, who are Senior 3 students from The High School Affiliated to Renmin University of China (中国人民大学附属中学) in Beijing. Titled An Empty City (《空城》), the song became a hit as soon as it was released because of its thought-provoking (引人深思的) lyrics and deep emotion (感情).

People have not only been amazed by the talent of these young teenagers, but also touched by their strong sense of social responsibility. Liu said in an interview that he has read a lot of news stories lately, both good and bad, which led him to write a song that expresses his own opinion about the present situation.

why

what

“I love making music and used to have my own band. Music is the best way for me to express myself. After the college entrance exam this year, I’ll continue to make more,” Liu told China Youth Daily.

ideas

Write an English poem

who

Du Yiran is a Junior 2 student from Baoding, Hebei. While stuck at home during the outbreak, Du and her classmates wrote several acrostic poems (藏头诗) in English to help cheer people up. “My teacher suggested this form. I found it quite interesting. You can hide a message in the first letters of each line and surprise your readers as they read downwards,” Du said. “As teenagers, we can’t go to the front line to save people’s lives, but we should learn to care about others and do something meaningful during this time.” Here is one poem they wrote.

why

what

ideas

WHJY ZGJY (武汉加油，中国加油)

Whereas we Chinese are facing an intractable (难解决地) difficulty

Hundreds of angels still choose to gather in one city

Jadedness (疲倦) can’t stop them from conquering (战胜) this disease

Yielding (屈服) has never become a possibility

Zapping (摧毁) the horrible virus is not an unreachable dream

Going outside with a face mask is protective adequately (充分地)

Joining together to make contributions (贡献) to our society

Youngsters have the duty to shoulder this responsibility

BY DU YIRAN AND SUN RUI, THE AFFILIATED SCHOOL OF HEBEI BAODING

NORMAL

Words and expressions

hit close to home (使感同身受)

a great cause (目标) :goal

quarantined (隔离)

pray (祈祷)

flesh (肉身)

conquering (战胜)

contributions (贡献)

contribute(v.)

emotion (感情)

Presenting ideas

Write a report

Most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, your headteacher wants to know what creative/interesting things you are doing at home during this difficult time. Please ask one of your classmates on Wechat, and write a report of you two to your teacher. (the following table may help you)

Who	What	Why	Ideas

Presenting ideas

You can start like this:

Hello, Ms/Mr....! Although most of us are now stuck at home due to the virus outbreak, there are still many creative things to stay positive at home. Now Take a look at.....

(Present the report to your teacher on Wechat group)

21st Century

TEENS Junior<sup>1</sup>

Thank you.

二十一世纪英语教育传媒出品